William Gowie specializes in tax preparation and business planning for small and medium sized businesses and individuals, with specific expertise with dentists and doctors. He began his career in 1995 as an intern for Gene Steger while earning his Bachelor's degree in accounting and business management from West Chester University. William continued his education at Villanova University, receiving his Master's degree in taxation in 2000.

In 2001, he partnered with his longtime boss and mentor to form Steger, Gowie & Co. In July of 2017, Steger Gowie merged with Merves Amon & Barsz, LLC. The new firm, Barsz Gowie Amon & Fultz, boasts 35 employees. William's success in managing the operations of Steger Gowie and the subsequent merger affords him firsthand knowledge when advising clients on how to effectively operate their own profitable businesses.

By employing an action-oriented, straight forward and proactive style of business, William has earned the trust and respect of his clients and fellow professionals. William resides in Haverford Township with his wife and three children. He is an active member of his community, serving on the Board of the Delaware County Chamber of Commerce and the Board of the Haverford Partnership for Economic Development.

"The presentation will cover the ten common mistakes that dental practices make and the ways to avoid them. Specifically, I will focus on mistakes made when developing a business plan and handling the practice's finances and accounting. Whether it's a newly opened practice, your business profits have plateaued or you've been in the industry for 20 years, there is something to be learned by everyone. I will have time at the end for attendees to ask any questions that may be specific to his or her practice's needs."
